

Acknowledging the Website's Conditions of Use and Bibliographic Sources

Acknowledging the Website

If a user chooses to download images from this website, all acknowledgements should provide the image's section and reference number and the website's title. For example, "Military: The Amazons of Dahomey; SA-MILAMAZ-1, as shown on <file:///C:/Users/mary/Desktop/Sankofa%20Site/site/Galleries/Amazons/gallerymainAmazonMil-Ama-1.html>, by Sankofa Archives.

Conditions of Use

The images on this website are intended for educational and non-commercial purposes. They are provided for the personal use of students, teachers, scholars, and the general public. Some of these images are copyrighted, as typically indicated in a note accompanying the image. People wishing to use copyrighted images for their own purposes are advised to contact the copyright holders directly. The author of this website cannot be held responsible for any infringement of copyright.

Users may download non-copyrighted images for display on websites for public, non-commercial use. Education institutions and individuals may also create links to images and other portions of this resource. High-resolution copies of these images cannot be downloaded from the website.

*****

It is not the intention of the Sankofa Archives Galleries to infringe on any copyright holder. If there is an image in the collections that does not belong or does not provide correct accreditation, then please email mcharlot@sankofaarchives.com. The image will be removed or the information corrected as soon as possible.

*****

Bibliographic Sources

In many cases, the sources used are available on several, if not most, major research websites, including the NYPL Digital Collection, the Library of Congress, Google Books, Archive.org, and Wikipedia, among others. I have acknowledged under each image the book, individuals, or website from which I have obtained the image, along with a link to the original source. Please do not contact me about these sites.